53,000 Facing March Draft

Washington.—The Defense Department issued a called Monday for 53,000 draftees in March. All were slated to go into the Army.

Officials said the Selective Service system will not have to provide draftees for the Navy, Air Force, or Marine Corps during March. They will meet manpower needs through volunteers and reenlistments.

The Armed Forces have achieved their authorized strength of 3.6 million men. Of the total, more than 1.5 million are in the army.

Texas Influenza Epidemic Expected to Ease Next Week

AUSTIN—Texas has suffered some 250,000 influenza cases during the past three weeks but the epidemic should begin to subside next week, state health officer George W. Cox said Tuesday.

Dr. Cox said there were 46,064 reported cases for the week ending Jan. 17.

However, he pointed out that only 50 of Texas' 254 counties made reports for the week. The estimate of 250,000 cases for the three-week period, he added, was a "guess," based on reported cases and estimates of other counties.

Hildalgo County topped the state with 13,000 cases for the week ending Jan. 17. Uvalde County listed 4,900; McLennan, 25,000; and Brazos, 766.

"The situation," Dr. Cox said, should be getting better in the next week. The weather will probably be good and the epidemic should subside."

School Board Studies Tax Problems; New Contracts Awarded

The Cameron School Board this week in regular monthly meeting discussed and studied ways and means of securing an adequate tax rate for the district before state funds are withheld from the District.

They had a report from the Texas Education Agency that no action would be taken by the state provided an adequate tax rate was established within a reasonable time—the state did not amplify the statement as to what would constitute a reasonable length of time.

Due to the closeness of the recent tax and bond election which was defeated by 33 votes—and due to the fact that only 975 votes out of a possible 1500 or more were cast, the Board is trying to determine just what the

FHA Lists Highlights For 1952

By Roy Wright, Co. Supervisor

Helping family farmers make better use of their land and labor for maximum efficiency and greater production is the major aim of the Farmers Home Administration in Milam and Burleson counties.

Loans and Supervisions

The agency's operating loan program enables farmers to obtain the livestock, equipment, fertilizer, and other items needed to increase production. It assists families in adjusting inadequate farming systems and becoming firmly established on a sound basis.

The farm ownership program helps families own farms or make farms more productive by providing funds for land clearing, drainage, fencing, permanent seedings, or the construction or repair of necessary farm buildings.

Supervision in working out farm and home plans that make full use of the family's and and labor resources accompanies the loan. Applications from veterans receive preference.

Local Farms Assisted

At the present time, 90 families in this two-county unit are buying, improving, or operating farms through FHA supervised credit. As of December 31, 1952 the outstanding loans to these farm families for all purposes totaled approximately $564,000. During the year 1952 the two-county unit collected a total of $126,175.40.

To farm better and produce more for market and home use, families cooperating in the agency's program are planning better-balanced crop and livestock programs, analyzing ways to keep family members more fully employed, adopting improved farm practices for better land use and more productive acres, increasing farm efficiency through proper machinery and equipment, and improving inadequate housing.

They are clearing and developing idle land, building up the soil, planting better seed, practicing better insect control, raising higher quality livestock, and generally making better use of their labor than before coming to the agency. Farmers in this locality have been able to increase their production considerably per acre on cotton and corn as well as other proroducts. This has increased purchasing power and makes them better customers of local merchants. Their increased incomes enable them to bear a higher share of the tax burden.

Successful borrowers soon become customers of local banks and cooperative credit institutions. Most families with FHA find themselves better able to support their local churches, and participate in civic, farm, and other community organizations.

The supervisor is aided greatly in his work by numerous individuals and groups—civic, farm, and service organizations, persons in other branches of the State and federal service; church, school, and community leaders, county officials and others.

He feels especially fortunate to have the help of three prominent local farmers who compose the FHA county committee. These committeemen certify applications for loans, certify as to the value of farms, and perform numerous other important duties. For Milam county, committeemen are: James H. Majors, chairman, Route 2, Cameron, Hugh Caffey, Route 2, Thorndale, and Ed O. Pagel, Route 2, Buckholts. The county supervisor, Roy Wright, county clerk, Miss Leona Blakey, or members of the county committee will be glad to give additional information regarding loans, or arrange for trips to see some of the work borrowers are doing on their farms. The county office is located in the Henderson Bldg., Cameron, Texas.

Registrants Should Notify Draft Board When Status Changed

Milam county draft registrants are to notify the local board, immediately after it occurs, any change in status, as it might affect their classification. Many registrants delay notifying the board of these changes until after they have been mailed their induction notice, then it is too late as the board may not reopen the file of any registrants after mailing induction notice except in cases of emergency and then authority must be obtained from the State Director of Selective Service.

Any information regarding a registrant is confidential and the law does not allow the board members or the clerk to disclose any information contained in the file of a registrant without his written permission. The law does not allow this information to be given to even the wife or family of a registrant without his written permission. Only the public records of the board are available for release to the public.

It is the duty of the registrant to keep himself informed of his classification and any action that may have been taken by the board in his case. A registrant may view the contents of his life at any time and will be given any information requested regarding Selective Service Regulations..

The board reports that preinduction and induction notice for Feb. will be placed in the mail early next week.

Rains, Drougth Average Out

Austin.—Floods and drouth combined in Texas during December to make the rainfall for the whole state average out normal.

Water shortage in major reservoirs increased nearly 6 per cent, the weekly report of the Texas Board of Water Engineers showed Monday.

But rain still was low in the lower coastal area, the Panhandle and in West Texas. For the fifth straight month, no water flowed in the North Concho River near Carlsbad. And San Angelo's water supply in Lake Nasworthy continued to fall.

Dallas' water supply in Lake Dallas rose only a fraction.

Rainfall was reported above normal in Central Texas and East Texas. Greater than averge runoff occurred on the Sulphur and Sabine Rivers in East Texas and on the Guadalupe and Lavaca Rivers in Central Texas.

In the Panhandle the Canadian River near Amarillo flowed about 27 per cent of average.

At the end of December, Lake Travis on the Colorado River near Austin was reported at 99 per cent of capacity; Eagle Mountain Lake on the West Fork of the Trinity near Fort Worth, was at 69 per cent; Lake Dallas was at 11 per cent; and the lowest was the Red Bluff reservoir on the Pecos River, at 7.4 per cent.

INTERNAL REVENUE

Are you one of those fortunate individuals who this year expect to have more than $100 outside income, not subject to withholding tax? If by March 2 you have more than $100 outside income, and expect a total income of $600 or more during 1953, then you must file a declaration of estimated tax and pay the first quarterly installment by March 15 to avoid penalty.

Director of Internal Revenue R. L. Phinney sta , that even though your financial situation on March 15 does not require you to file a declaration at that time, your expected or exemptions may change during the year so that you will be required to file a declaration at a later date.

In such case, time for filing is as follows: June 15, if the change occurs after March 1 and before June 2; September 15, if the change occurs after June 1 and before September 2; January 15, 1954, if change occurs after September 1. The estimated tax may be paid in equal installments on the remaining payment dates.

After a declaration is filed and you find your estimated tax is substantially increased or decreased because of a change in income or exemptions, you should file an amended declaration on or before the next filing date—June 15, September 15, or January 15, 1954. The amended return should be marked "Amended," and must be filed with the Director of Internal Revenue with whom the original declaration was filed.

You need not make the last payment on your 1952 estimate due January 15, 1953, if you file your final return by January 15, 1953, and pay the balance of the tax due.

If at least two-thirds of your gross income is derived from farming, you may file your declaration on January 15 of the following year instead of the preceding March 15. Farmers who elect to wait until the following January 15 to file their declarations must then pay the entire estimated tax at that time. However, farmers who file their final tax returns by January 31 following the close of their calendar year, and pay the total tax at that time, need not file a declaration.

Phinney further states that if you have difficulty in estimating what your income will be this year, you may base your curret declaration on last year's income, using this year's exemptions and tax rates.

COLONEL ROBERTS USED GOLD NUGGETS TO SHOOT JACKRABBITS

When Colonel Roberts, joined the Texas Rangers he was broke, hungry, ragged, horseless. His only equipment was a six-shooter, and he didn't have ammunition for it.

And yet a few days before this man had shot jackrabbits with bullets made of gold. A fantastic tale, indeed, but Colonel Roberts had witnesses to back up his story.

Roberts, a Kentucky colonel, had been engaded in the lucrative Santa Fe trade between Independence, Missouri and the New Mexico City as early as 1822. The route was 800 miles long through dangerous Indian territory.

In the summer of 1835 Colonel Roberts, with several other parties, made the trip to Santa Fe. There the traders sold their goods for a handsome profit, and with the proceeds of their sales in gold and silver coin started on the return trip.

About 300 miles out they discovered Indians following them. Long familiar with Indian tactics, the traders reasoned that the srafty savages would attempt to stampede their horses, compel the whites to abandon their vehicles, and then plunder the wagons in safety.

The country, an open prairie, offered no natural protection. That night Roberts and his fellow traders picked the best position possible for a camp. They drew the wagons into a circle, lapped the tongues over the wheels of the forward wagons and secured them there with chains, and thus formed a bulwark as well as a corral for the horses.

They had little time to wait. When night came the Indians startt ed their war whoops. Yelling like demons, they charged the wagon fortress. But the traders' good and steady marksmanship broke the assault, and the attacker retreated to a safe distance. By making their rifle fire count the traders held the Indians at bay. But the horses became increasingly restless.

The Indians started "fiddling" by drawing their bow trings one across the other. The nervous horses began snorting and squealing, and then milling. The Indians commenced yelling and shrieking as an accompaniment to the noisy fiddling. Unable to edure this nerve racking pandemonium any longer, the horses leaped over the barriers and dashed away into the darkness. The Indians took off after them.

Thus the traders were left stranded with their treasure-laden wagons 500 miles from home and over 200 miles miles from the nearest settlement. It was too late in the season for west bound traders, and they knew there were no caravans following them. N ohelp could be expected from any source. There was only one chance of survival. Escape from the wagons befor ethe Indians returned after capturing the horses.

The men decided to turn back toward the Rio Grande. They took their guns and ammunition for protection, and to procure food on the long journey. Each man took a blanket, a canteen of water, and what food he could carry. A few of the men could not resist the temptation to pocket a few of the shining doubloons they had risked so much to earn.

For days the men trudged across the hot desert. Provisions soon gave out, and they had to depend upon what game they could kill, Jackrabbits were about all they found. They did not compain about the quality of the food. But the animals were so small they made a heavy drain upon the ammunition. Days before the journey ended every shot had been used.

The gold and silver coins the men carried, though once the most valuable possessions were now the most worthless. Then omeone had a truly "golden" idea: Gold actually might save them, though they could buy nothing with it. The men took their butcher knives and chopped the yellow doubleems into bullets. And then with the golden slugs they shot jackrabbits for food.

Finally the weary travelers arrived at Taos, ragged, barefooted, half starved. They presented a strange sight, which drew the Indian population to see them. The bedraggled travelers fought the Indians equally as interesting: They were decked from head to foot with gold and silver coins, which, strung on cords, was braided into their hair, encircled their necks and arms and dangled from the fringe on their clothing. Possibly it was best that the enraged Americans had used up all their gold bullets on jackrabbits.

Colonel Roberts worked his way from the Rio Grande into Texas and joined Captain William N. Eastland's company of Rangers.

He made a stake, and then, with lead instead of gold in his six-shooter, he passed from the Texas scene.

Shell Oil to Repair Plant at Sheridan

Shell Oil Company, operator of the Sheridan, Texas, cycling plant, announced that work will begin immediately to repair the damage resulting from an explosion and fire last week.

Company officials announced today that the Fluor Corporation has awarded the reconstruction contract.

The damage, estimated at $350,000, was confined to the plant's fractionation and distillation area. The construction work will take an estimated four months, according to the Shell officials.

What To Do?

Cameron officers were scratching their heads Friday over which car to put the ticket on for overparking. Seems that very few cars were in the parking stalls because when they got in they couldn't get out. Most of them were parked parallel.

Oh well, it was too cold to get very excited about it anyway.

Half-Million Dollar Flower Show Slated in Houston, March 14

Houston's half-million dollar Flower Show is scheduled to open March 14 at the Shamrock Exhibit Hall in Houston.

Paul Carroll, general chairman of the show, announced that this year's show will far exceed last year's spectacle of beauty.

"Already, we're receiving reservations from many foreign countries for exibit space during the 1953 International Flower and Garden Show. The second annual Houston International Flower and Garden Show will be designed to appeal to all classes of people," continued Mr. Carroll.

"Flower lovers, garden lovers and just plain beauty lovers from all over South Texas are expected to make their second annual pilgrimage to Houston, March 14 through 17 to see the mammoth floral display.

"Over 25,000 visitors attended the first Houston International Flower and Garden Show held last March. Last year's visitors will be happy to know that one shortcoming in last year's show has been removed. That shortcoming involved traffic through the show. Often in the first show there were congested areas. Through careful revision of the plans, spectators this year will be able to see each exhibit free of jostling crowds.

"The Houston International Flower and Garden Show is an exhibition of flowers, bulbs, shrubs, trees, garden arrangements and floral displays sponsored each year by the Flower Show Committee of the Houston Chamber of Commerce. There will be commercial exhibits from all over the world, as well as floral displays sponsored each year by the Flower Show Committee of the Houston Chamber of Commerce. There will be commercial exhibits from all over the world, as well as floral displays sponsored by local Houston garden groups.

Mrs. Melvin Weems and Mrs. Virg Richards spent Wednesday in Rosebud visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hal Clifton.

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER WANTS TO BORROW MONEY IF HE CAN GET SAME TERMS ENGLAND IS GETTING

Editor's note: The Little River Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm in the Marlow community has caused a little comment, and we asked him for his picture, which we wish we hadn't done. But since we asked him for his picture, which we wish we hadn't done. But since he sent it along, we're publishing it with his letter, which this week incidentally reveals the considerable ignorance of international finance.

Dear editar:

I read in a copy of the Waco News Tribune which I got in town Saturday because it was wrapped around the shoes I had half-soled where England some time ago negotiated a loan from the United States and the terms was so interesting to me I have been wondering why we can't have some bankin like that down here in Milam County.

As I understand it, the United States is loanin Great Britain four billion dollars and won't no interest start until 1954—and when it does start it will be 2 percent, with the provision that England can ignore the interest if her exports fall below sixty percent of what they was immediately before the last war started.

Now there's a system of bankin which I admire and I would like to know why Banker Lester Williams and Banker Oxsheer Smith don't get their bankin principles up on the international level and really do some business.

If the bank will loan me money without no interest until 1954 and none then if my farm don't produce sixty percent of what it did before the war, and I figure I can arrange to keep production down to that figure without no effort at all to speak of, there ain't no tellin how far I could go or how much business the bank could do with me.

I understand the United States is makin this loan because it is worried about England goin under and the same thng would apply in my case. I could meet them terms satisfactorily. But it is my opinion England ain't in no serious danger as long as there is Englishmen left smart enough to negotiate them kinds of loans.

If you know of any bank in this area dealin in international loans I will appreciate you lettin me know as soon as possible and I hope I get there before the money's all gone.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

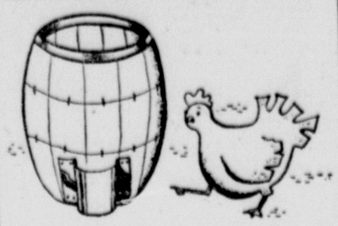
Grit Self-Feeder



It takes just a few minutes to make this handy grit, or oyster shell self feeder for poultry. All you need is a nail keg and a tin can. Saw three inches off the bottom end of one stave of the keg for the outlet. Then, use a one-pound coffee can for the feed trough. Cut this down the seam—then back along the bottom three inches. Then bend the sides out to form "wings." Finally, shape the scoop-like bottom of the can so it fits into the keg opening, tack the "wings" to the keg, and you have a feeder!

Icy Roads Cause Seven-Car Smashup

Icy roads brought on the most spectacular accident of the year at 7:00 a. m. Friday morning when seven cars piled up on the Little River bridge one miles from the Cameron city limits.

Mrs. D. C. Richards was driving toward Rockdale when her car went out of control and struck the bridge. Sam White, of Cameron, was following close behind, but managed to get his car stopped before he collided with Mrs. Richards. However, behind White, a car driven by John Hedgecough was unable to stop on the icy bridge. Behind Hedgecough came Mrs. Neil Demke, and behind her, three more until there were seven wrecked cars blocking the bridge. No estimate was made of loss, but it was reported that nearly all cars suffered considerable damage. No one was seriously injured.

The occupants of the last three cars left the scene due to the extreme cold and their names had not been learned by press time.

Another accident, involving two cars and a truck marred the highway last night about eight. It occurred near Buckholts on the Temple highway.

A 1952 Chevrolet driven by a man named Preascher from Clifton went out of control and skidded across the highway in front of a Dodge truck driven by Harry Pruitt of Waco. Raymond Zelisgo, of Buckholts driving a 1948 Ford, following behind the truck piled into the wreckage. No one was seriously injured, but extensive damage was done to the truck, according to Sheriff Carl Black.

Texas Students Enhance MOD

Austin.—Desperate for money to fight polio, Texas citizens are tapping all resources to accelerate the 1953 Mrach of Dimes, according to General Robert J. Smith, state MOD chairman.

Everything from quilting bees by mothers to mass society solicitation by pupils have been benefit games. Newspapers, radio and television stations have concocted fundlraising stunts.

Such ingenuity helped one school reach its "quota" before the campaign formally opened Jan. 2. That was the Rotan, Texas, junior high school, which based its successful drive on a contest between school rooms.

Other Texas schools have sponsored local March of Dimes. San Angelo high school's basketball team became the vehicle for another effective effort. Different merchants offered to contribute $1 each for every point made by the team in a certain game. Several other Texas cities are adopting this plan.

Alice women gave a MOD style show; San Antonio Firemen played the Policemen at basketball in another benefit; Abilene Carpenters union gave a dance; Breckenridge women made a quilt for auction over Station KSTB, and in Denison, the Rev. V. D. Price, pastor of the Sunnyside Baptist church, made a MOD sermon from his bed where he has been confined following a polio attack.

Kerrville realtors sponsored a March of Dimes movie. Lufkin, Austin and other cities diverted all dimes placed in parking meters to the MOD fund. Texarkana Elks backed a special MOD radio show. Houston's top entretainment talent collaborated to put over an evening long benefit show. Beaumont's youngsters added to the cash jackpot with a roller skating party. The Texas A&M field house will be the scene of a Bryan community March of Dimes sports show January 23.

General Smith said "countless schemes to guarantee success of this state-wide effort that must not fail."

Hardest Freeze Of Winter Brings Sleet And Low of 25 Degrees Here

Cameron streets were practically deserted Saturday morning as Friday night's hard freeze following sleet and rain covered them with a solid blanket of ice.

A low of 25 degrees was recorded in Cameron Friday night and one-half inch of precipitation was measured from the sleet and freezing rain.

It was pretty nearly the same picture over the eastern half and southern part of the state. More than 100 schools were closed Friday due either to flu or the bad weather.

Livestock has been hard hit in the Milam area. Farmers and ranchers throughout the county have had to brave the cold and wet to nurse their stock.

Lone Star Gas Co. reported a record high consumption of one billion cubic feet of gas for a 24-hour period. They serve 387 towns in Texas and Oklahoma. Just before the cold wave hit these same towns used about half that much in a 24-hour period.

Roads are reported dangerous throughout the state although none have been closed. Bridges were said to be iced over as far south as the coast.

The Texas Power and Light Co. had their troubles with the weather. Ice gathered on the lines in Cuero and caused them to break. Ice broke limbs off trees in Palestine and caused power failures. Locally, there was no trouble except for wind blowing branches into lines, shorting them.

The Centex area is slated for a thaw this week-end, according to the Weather Bureau.

Gov. Allan Shivers Designates March 1-7 Public School Week

Austin, Texas

GREETINGS:

One of the great basic institutions upon which we rely for the furtherance of our American ideals is our public school system. It is the birthright of every American to attend our public schools and to there acquire the essentials for making an honorable living, as well as an understanding of the reciprocal privileges and responsibilities of American citizenship, the advantages of our way of life, and the place of our country in the world.

We in Texas are proud of the school system that has been developed in our state. We like to believe that the opportunities afforded our children for sound basic education are not excelled anywhere. If we are justified in this conclusion it is only because the people of our State have shown a personal interest in education and because public spirited men and women have been willing to devote their lives to the teaching of youth.

Our school system can meet the objectives expected of it only when there is widespread public understanding of our schools and the type of education they provide. This kind of understanding can best be developed by the intimate knowledge that comes from inspecting the schoolhouses, knowing the teachers ands seeing the work of the pupils.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of the State of Texas, do hereby designate the week of March 1-7, 1953, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in Texas and I urge every citizen to visit at least one public school during this period and to become personally acquainted with the programs and accomplishments of our educational system.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 16th day of January, 1953.

ALLAN SHIVERS,
Governor of Texas

Secrest Among 15 Lucky Ones to Draw Four Year Terms

State Senator Jarrard Secrest of Temple is a lucky man. Wednesday he drew one of the odd-numbered little red capsules that entitled him to a four-year term in the Senate in Austin.

The drawing for two or four-year terms, the first in more than 20 years, was brought about by the legislative redistricting of 1951. As a result of the shuffling of the districts, all senators started new terms this year.

Although the term of a senator is set at four years, the constitution provides that half of the membership shall stand for election each two years. To get the membership "constitutoinally staggered," the drawing was necessary.

Members of the senate determined which 15 of their number would seek re-election in two years by drawing red capsules from a clear glass candy jar.

Each capsule contained a number, ranging from one through 31 (the number of senators(. Senators drawing an even number get two-year terms. Those drawing odd numbers were lucky an get four-year terms.

Secrest, senator for the McLennan-Bell-Milam district drew an odd number for a four-year term.

Two other Central Texas senators were not so lucky. Crawford C. Martin of Hillsboro and William T. Moore of Bryan drew even numbers for tyo-year terms.

In other business at the state capital Reresentative Sam Sellers of Waco was named vice chairman of the committee on penitentiaries.

Emergency Leave Poiicy Broadened

A broadening of the Army policy concerning emergency leave now permits individuals to return to the United States if they so desire, in case of death of spouse or minor child.

Previous policy allowed individuals to return only in casese where situations existed that required their presence, and for which no other person or agency was available that could resolve the emergency.

Included in the new policy is the provision for such return if it will contribute to the welfare of a dying member of the immediate family. This includes father, mother, wife, children, brother, sister only living relative, or those in loco parentis. It also includes cases in which, through the death or serious illness, or accident, to a member of the service person's family, important responsibilities are placed on him that cannot be accomplished from overseas, or discharged by any other person.

Sgt. Porubsky entered the service in September 1949 and was sent overseas after about five weeks in the service. He said the people in Germany were very good to him. He served in the mechanized department.

He plans to start working at Alcoa plant at Rockdale in the near future.

Electric Cooking

Costs only half as much as I thought!

And electric cooking costs only half as much as you think, too!

Yes, cleaner, cooler electric cooking actually costs less than 1¢ per person per meal. That's because you cook with magic "free heat" most of the time. The oven thermostat cuts the electricity off and back on as needed to keep the temperature even, and the current is on less than half of the time. Much of the surface cooking uses the low heat position on the range — inexpensive as an ordinary light bulb. No doubt about it, when you cook electrically, with accurately-controlled, even heat, you cook with real thrift — and good taste, too!

FIVE-YEAR PLAN—

cially the latter, as on cloudy days, students barely have enough light in the classrooms to carry on their studies.

Dr. Swift called on others to present what they thought were the needs of the school system. Judge Charles Smith, Jr. who at first acted as spokesman for the group stated that the way the ballot read might have been confusing to some of the voters, and possibly when and if the issue is voted on again, wording of the ballot should be more simplified, if it can be legally done.

W. D. Bigbee, well known farmer in the Elm Ridge community explained his viewpoint on the issue. After considerable discussion on the matter, agreed that in his opinion the $500,000 bond issue was all right, but that the board should use the bond money only as it became necessary to build the needed and most essential structures. He said that he would support a bond issue if the board would do just this; he stated that a year or two from now a building might be erected on less money than at the present time.

A. H. "Dutch" Baskin, Jr., also a farmer and Cameron business man gave his viewpoints and suggestions along the same trend as those of Bigbee.

Frank Reid, member of the board who has taken an active part in securing facts and figures on the school expansion program, assured both Mr. Baskin and Bigbee the board would and has always intended to use the tax payer's money just as sparingly and economically as the board knew how. He also explained how members of the board had visited other school projects that are now under construction, in order to get ideas and information suitable for the Cameron school needs at the lowest possible cost to the people. He stressed that the board, in asking for the $500,000 bond issue to build the needed facilities, were not trying to put anything under cover or misled the people in any way, but were doing the best in their honest opinion to give to the people and the school children "the best for the less."

Supt. W. T. Hanes reported the most imperative needs which included a vocational building, homemaking department, and workshop. He said these could be built this summer. Supt. Hanes said his first interest in the matter is the students, as a large majority that graduate never go off to college and something along the vocational line is extremely helpful to any student. Facilities of this nature are the most needed at the present time. Some of the other parts of the program can wait a year or so, he added.

Bill Wallace, member of the board, gave his legal opinions on matters that arose at the meeting.

Near the end of the meeting it was suggested that a five-year proup to take care of the immediate gram of school expansion be set needs and build additional buildings as they become necessary. This plan was generally agreed on by all present. It was also mentioned that a similar meeting be held in the near future at which time plans and suggestions be mapped out for the needed program. It was also suggested that meetings be held in the various communities in the rural sections of the county that have consolidated with the Cameron district for the purpose of educating the people on proposed plans.

Others present at the meeting made short discussions relative to the school program. Attending were B. Slocomb, "Dutch" Baskin, W. B. Bigbee, H. B. Chamberlain, Fred Folschinsky, Hayden Lawrence, Mrs. Jack DuBois, Mrs. Clifton Jenness, Adolph Richter, Jesse Hickman, George Leath, Ben Reichert, Charles Smith, Sr., Leo Fuchs, Ralph Michalka, Frank Reid, Dr. C. G. Swift, Charles Smith, Jr., Bill Wallace, Max McClaren and Superintendent Hanes.

Miracle Leather Developed

Keeping your feet dry in winter's slush, without burdening yourself with rubbers and galoshes, should be easy soon, as a result of new research developments disclosed by Leather Industries of America.

Leather is used universally as a shoe material because its fibrous construction permits feet to "breathe," that is evaporate foot moisture. Now, American tanners, teamed up with chemists, have produced leather that allows moisture to be evaporated from inside the shoe, but completely blocks moisture from entering through the outside.

This leather, now being tanned in experimental batches, can be used not only in shoes, but also in other articles, such as gloves and garments, where both porosity and weather-proofing are important.

Another chemical processing treatment, involving "polymerization" or resin penetration of hides, is producing leather that is tougher and more scuff-resistant than ever before, while retaining the flexibility and appearance of genuine leather.

"Polymerized" leather is making possible articles such as luggage, handbags, upholstery and decorative leathers which can withstand abnormal wear and abuse and still retain their "just new" look.
